

Team YANTSU Newsletter

October 2, 2012

Synopsis

As we are now in October, I have to say that September was quite productive in the planning stages. Now it is time to start actually scripting videos for the 2012 season. Any YANTSU member can script videos for their personal YouTube channels and release them between now in December 24, 2012. At the last meeting, we told you about the release of the new logo among many other things that are new and upcoming. This month will be all about finalizing the planning stages of the show and focusing on advertising and having fun in November and December. Starting in late October, we will begin filming all the way up to about December 20 (subject to change). For now, begin making scripts and start corresponding with one another to shoot these videos.

Continue your hard work,

The "Member of the Week" section will start towards the beginning of November 2012. We do this so that everyone has one spot in the member slot leading each week up to December 24. For now, thanks to everyone's hard work this past month and the summer before that.

December 24

We are about 80 days away from our show on December 24. Continue to work hard in providing the fans of our team with multiple posts in our social media and keeping them updated with NORAD Tracks Santa updates as they are released for 2012. Not much time is left and we need everyone's cooperation to attend all meetings from here until the show. Thanks for your hard work as a team!
