

Team YANTSU Newsletter

September 15, 2012

Synopsis

This has been a great month for Team YANTSU and we have been preparing for our 2012 tracking season. For the past two to three months, we started off with record timing and accurate precision. At the last meeting on August 18, we talked and voted about several topics and got through everything very quickly. The money additions were taken off the website, we brought up good points on social media, and welcomed back Jacob Dillon as a full time member. The next meeting may be longer, so be prepared to stay a bit longer. Keep an eye on your inboxes for possible upcoming meeting dates and times as we finish September and move into October.

The “Member of the Week” section will start towards the beginning of November 2012. We do this so that everyone has one spot in the member slot leading each week up to December 24. For now, thanks to everyone’s hard work this month as well as the summer.

Give a warm welcome to our two newest members: Nick and Justin. If you want to give your welcome, send a message to them at the following YouTube links.

December 24

December 24 is still very far out, but believe it or not, we are officially less than 100 days away from the show. Over the next 100 days, you will be put to the test of putting on a great show by working hard as a team and giving the audience a well deserved show. Thanks for your work so far. This is just the halfway point to preparing for the show.

Keep working hard,
Patric/Ganon136
Head of Team YANTSU 2011-2012
