The Team YANTSU Push Continues

All of us at Team YANTSU are kicking our biggest production into high gear and that enthusiasm has not just been in the team but is even starting to spread to all our followers on social media. Within the last few days alone, our Instagram followers rate has increased and we are projected to hit 1k followers in the next few days. It doesn't stop there! Our Facebook and Twitter pages have created a lot of buzz for what is to come in the next few weeks leading up to our show as we continue to spread the word about what is predicted to be Team YANTSU's biggest show on Christmas Eve since its early years where BlogTV featured them on their home page. Regardless of how many viewers attend this amazing production, YOU are what makes our team come back year after year. We enjoy spreading smiles to families around the world and that is what truly matters during the holiday season. That is why we are pulling out all the stops on our tenth annual show. The viewers have responded so positively every single year and we are delivering one amazing show to you this holiday season. What are you looking forward to about our big tenth annual show? Is it the Christmas carols, the holiday drink counts, the polls, the holiday cheer, or the personal and interactive tracking with our wonderful hosts for over 24 hours?

Team YANTSU Member Spotlight

This week's team member spotlight goes to Max McIntyre! Max has helped bring new ideas to the table ever since his inclusion with Team YANTSU for the 2017 tracking season. He has been tracking Santa Claus for ten years at the age of 6, so it only made sense for Max to hop on the team and join fellow die-hard Santa trackers just like him. Max resides in the United Kingdom and plans on studying computer science when he gets to the university of his choice. You can see Max on the 10th Annual TrackingSanta Live Show this Christmas Eve!
