Synopsis

We at Team YANTSU hope all of you had a safe and fun Halloween this year and now it is time to get the ball rolling. We are working around the clock to guarantee the show will go off with a bang this year without any technical difficulties and scheduling everything as we have in years past. Currently, Team YANTSU is working on scripting video productions and getting the event out to the public via social media, YouTube, our website, and by word of mouth. We have been getting spikes in viewers on all of our recent trailers, videos, and web pages so we know you all are participating in all of the fun that is Team YANTSU and NORAD Tracks Santa. We will continue to update you frequently as we get more information that NORAD will allow and what we feel is appropriate at that time while still keeping the show details confidential as much as possible. We may release small hints from time to time, but they will be very rare. Stay tuned as we get you more information daily on our website.

The Member of the Week

This week we are featuring Head of Team YANTSU, Marcus Pearl! Marcus previously was the first Head of Team YANTSU and served as Chairman of Team YANTSU for a two year period before returning to the position this year. During our show, Marcus manages the team and makes sure that the Facebook community has the scoop on Santa's locations throughout Christmas Eve. Thanks Marcus!

The Arctic webcams have been picked up by a Russian ship for 2013 and images will not be available until next year.

December 24

December 24 is now officially 47 days away and we are working every day to make sure this year goes smoothly. Several meetings and final camps will take place during this month of November, so do not miss out on any of that Team YANTSU. For our fan community, expect more trailers over the next few weeks from both us and NORAD. Working unofficially this year alongside them, we sometimes get dates of things to come and content, but we cannot release this to the public. With just over a month and half left, we continue to work diligently to create a memorable experience for everyone this year. With thousands expected to attend, you definitely do not want to miss out in 2013. We have successfully held over 2500 viewers in the past 3 years and we continue to grow annually. Make sure you mark your calendars for upcoming events.

Team YANTSU is now asking the fan community for advertisements for the 5th Annual TrackingSanta Live Show!!! Check out this link below to learn more about the process...
